Dear [REDACTED]

I am indeed very sorry that the classification business we discussed when you were in my office has as yet not been settled.

In an attempt to get the job which we were discussing established so that I might give you a definite answer, I was informed by my superiors in CIO that you could not be employed by this organization in any case, since you were not retired from the Service for physical disability. This was certainly news to me, and from our conversation, I believe that you were also unaware of this fact.

I regret very much that our arrangement has not worked out. I should be glad to see you when you return to Washington, and your interest in working for our organization is sincerely appreciated.

Very truly yours,

STATINTL
